Does ACA guarantee an academic title?

No. ACA provides structured guidance, portfolio preparation, publication planning and opportunity support. Formal titles and appointments are decided by the authorized institution under its own procedures.

Why 20 and 40 articles?

These are ACA internal portfolio-readiness benchmarks for the Associate Professor and Professor pathways. They help members set measurable publication goals; they do not replace any external legal or institutional criteria.

Can doctoral graduates join?

The platform is designed primarily for doctoral graduates, academics and researchers building an advanced academic career. Individual pages may also provide resources useful to doctoral candidates and institutions.

Do universities pay?

No platform fee is charged to universities for submitting faculty needs through the institutional request form.

What happens after joining?

Members gain access to the Academician Portal where they can maintain profile information, organize documents, track publications, review opportunities and follow their academic development plan.

ACA guidance materials are designed for academic planning and dossier preparation. Formal institutional decisions remain with the competent institution.
